

It should be possible for the local community to own a share of the renewable energy projects in the area

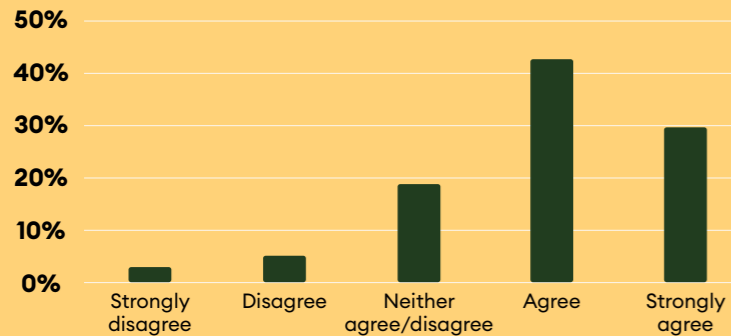

Helping local people reduce their energy bills and carbon footprint is a good way to focus wind farm community benefit funds

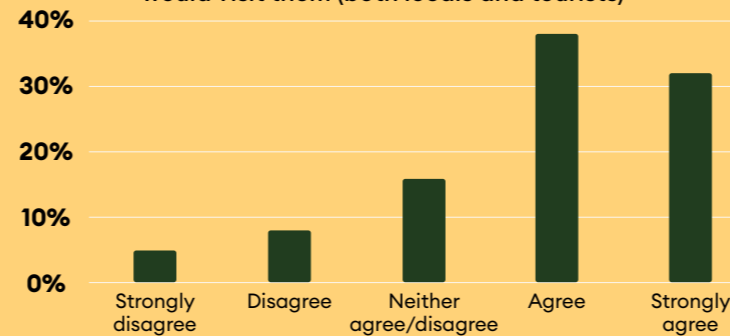

Communities in Clydesdale would be supportive of a service for free energy advice and energy efficiency improvements for their home

The Bodinglee proposal has evolved over time because of the feedback from the community

Renovating and restoring local history buildings would increase the likelihood that more people would visit them (both locals and tourists)
